The Hyde Park area has it all: Top health care facilities, outstanding schools, abundant housing choices, and diverse places to worship. It’s a great place to make a home in Chicago.

The Hyde Park area is home to Rush University Medical Center, one of the most respected hospitals in the country. Rush specializes in state-of-the-art care in a family-friendly environment. Also under the Medical Center umbrella is Rush University Medical Center, which specializes in state-of-the-art care in a family-friendly environment.

The University of Chicago is one of the world’s top medical schools, with a reputation for excellence in research and education. The University of Chicago is home to the Pritzker School of Medicine, which is consistently ranked among the top medical schools in the country.

The Hyde Park area is also home to some of the best public schools in Chicago. Hyde Park has a strong tradition of academic excellence, with a wide range of elementary and secondary schools. The University of Chicago Laboratory Schools educate nearly 1,700 students each year, while the University of Chicago Charter School’s four campuses serve as national models of urban education at its best.

Hyde Park’s 17 public, parochial, and private schools give parents a wide variety of options. Options for younger children include Murray Language Academy, a top-ranked private school, and the Baby PhD Childcare Network, which offers a full range of early childhood programs.

The Hyde Park area is also home to a variety of religious organizations. The Hyde Park–Kenwood Community Council sponsors an annual Interfaith Thanksgiving service, which draws together the University of Chicago and Hyde Park communities for fellowship. All major religious faiths are represented, as are many that are less known.

Hyde Park’s diversity is reflected in its many opportunities for worship and community. The Hyde Park–Kenwood Community Council is a key supporter of religious organizations and community groups throughout the neighborhood. The Council sponsors a variety of events and programs, including religious services, social events, and educational programs.

The Hyde Park–Kenwood Community Council is an integral part of the Hyde Park community, working to improve the quality of life for all who live here. The Council is committed to making Hyde Park a vibrant, welcoming community for all.

For more information on the Hyde Park area, please visit hydeparkchicago.org.